We call the particular attention of every one intending to purchase a first-class reliable watch to our following price list: Key-Winding Watches. KEYLESS WATCHES, (Stem-Winders.) The Keyless mechanism to a watch is one of the great modern improvements in watch work, it does away with the old-fashioned key, with which so many persons have ruined their watches. The watch is wound by turning a nuried knob placed on the handle or bow, instead of by the ordinary means; the hands are set in the same way. The advantages of these improvements are obvious, the case, which never need be opened in winding, is made air-tight and dust-tight, thus preserving much longer the finisity of the oil, and greatly prolonging the intervals between the necessary maning of the watch. AQUATICS.

The sculling match between Hanlan and Prickett, for the championship of the world, in which the latter was badly beaten, was pulled on the usual course between Putney and Mortlake. one single watch to any part of the world at wholesale price, i. e., 35 per cent. cheaper than any watchmaker, as The men kept together for the first balf-mile, Hanlan pulling 38 and Trickett 35 strokes to the minute. After that Hanlan drew ahead, and by the time Hammersmith Bridge was reached it was evident that the race was over. When Trickett put on a spurt Hanlan pulled away from him without appearing to make any great exertion, and finally came in two lengths before him. Time, 26 minutes 12 seconds. A great deal of money was lost in Sydney and by Australians in London on this race. At what is known as the "Hop Bitters Regatta," which was a well-contested affair on account of the handsome prizes to be competed for, Elias Laycock (of Sydney) distinguished bimself, and took the first prize-$2500. The second prize, $1500, was taken by Wallace Ross, of St. Johns, N. B.; the third, $700, by Hosmer, of Boston; the fourth, $300, by Smith. In the second heat of this race Laycock was pulling against Trickett, and beat him. The latter claimed a foul, but it was only against Smith, who took second place, and it was disallowed. Laycock has won every race he has pulled on the Thames, and is now about to row against Hanlan for the championship; the match is to come off on the 17th January. The stakes are $1000 a side, with an added bet of $2500—which was insisted upon by Hanlan as a condition of the

When Trickett returned to Sydney after his first success in the old world, he was challenged by Michael Rush, who claimed at that time to be the Australian champion oarsman. The result of that contest was an easy victory for Trickett. riess Chronometer, (imperial Chronometer), showing days, date, weeks and month on dial, William Trickett, a younger brother of the late champion, challenged Rush, and an exciting race was pulled on the Parramatta River on the 13th November, in which the old champion was victorious. It is announced that Rush will challenge Laycock to row for $2500 a side when the latter returns from England.

Spreckels' New Refinery.

Claus Spreckels intends to erect a large and finely-appointed sugar refinery on the Potrero, where six and a quarter blocks of land have been secured just beyond the new Gas Works and fronting on the shore of the bay. Proposals for grading the land are now being examined, and it is expected that the immense establishment, for the construction of which a round million of dollars will be necessary, will be completed in eight or nine months. Mr. Spreckels contemplates patronizing home industries and most of the money will be expended in this vicinity for material and labor. The plans were designed by S. S. Hepworth & Co., of New York City, and are an improvement on any works of the nature in this country, and in some respects far superior to anything of the kind in the world. Some two hundred men will be employed until the work is completed. There will be a bulkhead along the shore-line similar to the seawall in course of construction by the Harbor Commissioners. The entire length of the main refinery building will be 397 feet, while the structure where the sugar is boiled will be 145 by 85 feet, and the filter house in which the sugar is clarified will be 60 by 147 feet. The boiler-house will be 75 by 187 feet. The refinery and its appointments will occupy all the land from Delaware street on the north to Louisiana street, about one-half of the property secured. The structure is to be ten stories high, 110 feet to the roof, with a deep basement. The wharf will be 400 feet long, with extensive storehouses for sugar and yards for coal. The refinery and machinery will cost something like $600,000; and the largest vacuum pan in the world, seventeen feet in diameter by twenty-nine in height, will be one of the special features. The 250 men regularly employed by Mr. Spreckels in his refinery will live outside in quarters specially prepared BOSTON, U. S. of AMERICA. for them, including residences and hotels; and the new mill will be managed by P. A. Smith, the present Superintendent. All the material and machinery that can be possibly obtained here will be secured, and much of it is already contracted for. The Risdon Iron Works and other foundries are now making preparations for turning out about $100,000 worth of iron work for this monster establishment. The wages of the laboring men employed in the refinery range from $55 to $65 per month, while the other salaries are in proportion, and much higher than are paid in the East. A weekly allowance of five pounds of sugar and one gallon of syrup is made to each married man, while beer is furnished the hands twice a day.

The Drill of Life.

Suppose a man who is largely endowed and in good health saying to himself " Everything in my nature is to be recast, and at once." Why, that requires drill, patient beginning, exercising again and again, and in failing he commits no transgression; yet there are more men on mourners' seats on that account than for any other cause. God does not look for the same sort of fruit in one man that he looks for in another. I don't expect my apples to be ripe in June; they have to wait until October and some of them till November. Rawness is not sinfulness. I stand under the arched canopy of that God who has said, " Like as a father pitieth his children, doth the Lord pity those who fear him." The attempt to realize an ideal conception of life is generally more perfect, or attains nearer to perfection, in great natures. But great and fine natures are likely to suffer more than others, and they are also likely to make more suffering for others. There may be times in a man's life when he may with truthfulness say to himself that his right-cousness is as filthy rags. When it was said by one of old it was true; but when it comes down to our own time and every hoary-headed deacon says his righteousness is as filthy rags, it is an outrage, it is an insult to religion. When a man commands his temper under provocation, is that filthy rags? When a man makes great sacrifices for another, is that filthy rags? Try it, tell these men some time that all their righteousness is filthy rags, and see what will come of it. The voice of wisdom is sounded over a thousand years of history, urging men to try and try again, and be not discouraged in such phrases as these Address THE FRENCH TRADE JOURNAL & EXPORTER ("Come unto me," says the great Master, "all seed 14, Rue de Chabrol, Paris, France. [19] ye who are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest:" " take my yoke upon you, and you shall find it easy, and a rest for your souls." The religion of the New Testament is hopeful. God says to men, " I'll forgive transgressions of every kind so long as your faces are set heavenward;" but when a man says he doesn't want to THE CALIFORNIAN is the best and most popular | be saved, and goes deliberately on the dark side mouthly ever published on the Pacific Coast. It is the of life, no one but himself knows what the darkness of that man's life is; and what that darkness will be in the future neither you nor I know anything about. Then comes the second test that sets men free from this life of sin and Parlor Sets, sorrow. What is it? Why, it is simply grace. What is grace? Why, it is love and benignity. God waits for men, is gracious to them, as the phrase is, holds men up by every step they go. Man goes to the school of the Lord Jesus Christ, and in the language of the Old Testament, Christ says, "I'll never make mention of your sins; they shall be cast as a millstone into the sea." It is by such influences as these that man comes into an administration of love that is helpful and forbearing in every way. No man in one single step becomes a Christian, but he can take one step, as a man leaving here for New York, will take one step on his return toward there, and if be continues taking them, he will, probably, get AND ALL KINDS & STYLES there. Our life is woven, as the weaver weaves on his loom, by single threads, and it is for our-selves to make the garment of our life glorious.— H. W. Beecher.

The Secret Service at Washington has received a trade dollar which has been neatly scooped out in the centre, leaving a thin plate on each side. The cavity was filled with solder, and the edges bound with a rim of silver which had been skilfully milled into imitation of the genuine work. A remarkable feature about the coin is, that the detected by the merest accident. From the fact that the work was of such a painstaking and accurate character, and such a small profit was realized, it is believed it was done in China and sent over to the United States.

CORRESPONDENCE

We are not responsible for opinions expressed by corespondents, our columns being open to all for the disussion of public affairs from every point of view. Correspondents will please observe that all letters must be authenticated by the names of the writers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good

To the Editor of the Pacific Commercial Advertiser. Sir,-I am again compelled to ask the favor of a space in your columns, to reply to the most unjustifiable attack made in your last issue, upon myself MOST COMPLETE ASSORTMENT by a person named Henry Freeman, lately employed as a " Labor Agent " by the Board of Immigration. I cannot possibly allow such slanderous statements to pass without contradicting them.

The subjects commented upon by your correspondents X. Y. Z. and One who Knows have certainly roused his firey spirit, and he chooses to imply, (as an excuse for his grossly cruel accusations against myself,) that I am the author of the articles in question. I have addressed you certainly, in reply to your correspondents, but as the name of Freeman was never used in that letter, nor did I in any way allude to any such person, I cannot see how my letter could be taken as intruded for a vehicle of annoyance and slander. As to his expressed opinions of who is, or are the author or authors of any articles appearing in your columns, I do not suppose anyone cares one jot, I am sure I do not. Freeman insinuates that I want to get command of a labor vessel again-to this I reply that I would on no account even again take such a command. I am a poor man, but if such an offer were made to me by the Board of Immigration, I should most certainly decline it, even if my former salary was doubled. I should indeed be wanting in respect for myself. He next goes on to state that during his 8 months stay in the South Pacific he succeeded in sending to this country over 1,100 Polynesians. Now he was absent 11 months (I believe from June to May, 11 months), and sent up only 674 people. I quote authentically, viz :- December, 1879: Arrived per Hawaii and Stormbird, 282. April, 1880 : Arrived per Hawaii and John Bright, 298. May, 1880: Arrived per Stormbird, with Freeman on board, 94. Total, children not count-

Thus you see Mr. Editor a wide difference from this individual's statement. Records in office will bear out my statement. He further states that one voyage of mine extended over eight months, this is | Hay, Bran & Oats, another exageration, never did any one voyage of the Stormbird extend over 7 months, and that was on my maiden trip when I was delayed on account of continuous stormy weather.

Now I am not disposed nor uo I feel inclined to enter into any tu quoque argument with this person. but I feel no hesitation in saying that had Mr. Freeman remained in the Immigration service, the remonstrance of the British Government would have

I am proud to state also that never has a single South Seas, by the British naval authorities, although I am well aware of the fact, that the doings of the Stormbird during the time of my command, were closely watched from the time I left Sydney. Had any of the statements made by this person been correct, we should have heard of them in a BLACK VARNISH, BRIGHT VARNISH, proper official manner.

shall not trouble you with any further remarks, beyond this, that I think this sort of thing must be very distasteful to the reading public; people do not wish to be annoyed with this sort of thing, and I must really decline to notice any more effusions of this sort. I certainly should not be surprised to have another tirade of abuse levelled at me by this man Freeman, it will be quite in keeping with what his conduct was towards me in the past; but I trust he will have the sufficient good taste left to drop such a line of vindictiveness.

Let him confine his correspondence to the proper uestion at issue when no doubt, if he will only give us the benefit of his wonderful experiences, in the South Sea Islands, Fiji more particularly, your readers would accept such in a proper spirit and read with interest any information so afforded, that is to say, if it could in any way help in all the important There is one thing I deeply regret having done, matter of increasing our population. and for which I am in a measure responsible to the good people of this place, and that is, in kindness I allowed Mr. Freeman to share my cabin with me and take passage in the Stormbird. I should have left him where I found him, on the Island of Rotumah. These are hard words to have to say of any man, but his cruel vindictive and unjust attack on myself fully warrants my so doing. I am &c., GEO. GRESLY JACKSON. Navigating Lieutenant (still), R. N.
